

Western Wins Second Straight Playoff

HARRY IRVING WAITS to get into the game while Vic Obeck watches his team being driven back to their own goal line in Saturday's championship game. The large crowd of McGill fans mirrored both the depression of Irving and the anxiety of Obeck many times Saturday in a game with few opportunities for Redmen fans to do any cheering.

PETE ROBINSON, number 95, is going hard around the end with his arm in the air after having eluded a Western tackler. Another Westerner is being taken out with a neat block. Other players are Dawson Tilley (26), Fred Wilmet (15), Baldy Tomlinson (45), Jim Mitchener (58), Number 82 in the background is Haskell Blauer.

DON MCFARLANE, left, and his brother BOB said good-bye to college football Saturday as the Mustangs took the senior championship from McGill for the second time in a row. The little fellow between them is said to be Johnny Metras' little son and if he is anything like his father, the Mustangs will have winning teams for a long time to come.

Outstanding Feats of Football Team Recalled

Great Runs by Irving, Wagner, and Crain as Seen in Review

Harry Irving's 90 yd. runback of the kickoff against Queen's was one of the outstanding feats of a player on the McGill football team this year. If anyone does not remember this happened in the third quarter of the first game against Queen's.

Irving caught the kickoff on his own twenty and seemed on the way to a short runback. Then all off a sudden the Queen's tacklers opened up for him and Harry was off. He ran straight down and with the help of a block by Sharpe at the 85 yd. line he cut over to the far side of the field and from then on he outsped the rest of his pursuers to the goal line.

Another outstanding feat by a football player was at Toronto by Ken Wagner. Besides averaging over ten yards a try when he carried the ball Wagner made what Coach Vic Obeck called, one of the greatest runs he has ever seen.

On an end run Wagner ran 62 yards for a T.D. leaving strewn in his wake six Varsity players who missed him. Wagner accomplished this run with the help of two things. One was his speed and the other his straight arm; he seemed to have the knack of waiting to the last split second before shoving it into the other man's face.

Geoff Crain provided McGill fans with another great thrill when he intercepted a pass thrown by the Queen's quarterback and then ran 80 yards to a T.D. Crain during the season had the uncanny ability to get in the way of many passes and either intercept them or knock them down.

'Old Automatic' himself Freddy Wilmet certainly gave a good exhibition during the year. Before this final Western game he had kicked 12 converts in a row and 16 out of 19. It must be remembered that out of those three missed converts, one of them hit the goalposts and another one was called back because of an offside penalty against McGill.

He also made a very fine catch in Toronto to go for a touchdown. That was the time he caught an Irving forward on the dead-run and from there raced 25 yards to the goal line.

Saint Slugline Ball Slated For Nov. 24

All members of The Daily staff are invited to the Second Annual Saint Slugline Ball to be held on Friday, Nov. 24 at 8:30 p.m., in the Lounge of the Union, Al Doyle, president of the Press Club, announced last night.

The program for the evening will include the presentation of The Daily deputations, dancing, singing, skills, and group games. John Waller will be on hand to conduct the square dances, a popular feature of last month's party.

An invitation has been extended to the officials of other student publications of the campus, as it is one of the aims of the Press Club to promote co-operation and understanding between various publications which have mutual interests.

Later in the week a notice will appear in The Daily saying how and where invitations may be obtained from the heads of the various departments.

Many Claim 'Free' Phone Was Worth Wait in Line

By EDWARD ROBINE

No more free 'phone calls from the Union; such was the verdict of the Union House Committee when it was found that some had been using the "free" telephone in the basement of the Union in order to place long distance calls for which they apparently had had no intention of paying.

Student reaction was generally one of disgust; student opinion condemned the few who, by thoughtless abuse, had deprived the many of the almost unique privilege of "getting something for nothing".

"There must be some ways", commented one science man, "of having the free telephone and still being able to keep a watch on the few who would abuse the privilege. I've often had to wait in line; but, at least, when you get to the 'phone you don't have to pay!"

A typical comment: "It's a shame that there are always a few who will do something like that!"

The free 'phone had been connected up with the Union switchboard; hence there had been no nickles required.

One R.V.C. resident added: "A lot of the crowd used to go over to the Union when they had any 'phoning to do. I imagine that now they will call from our own pay 'phones". Pay telephones have been installed in all residences since late last November.

When the question of the free telephone was discussed around the campus one rather surprising sidelight was revealed. Most students knew of the two 'phones in the Union basement; not all, however, had realized that one was "free".

They had, apparently, always gone to the 'phone booth without the line-up; had never realized that there must have been a reason why one booth was more popular than the other. Now that it is too late to be of use to them they have been told the truth!

Championship Hopes Dispelled As Redmen Fail in Clutch Game

Metramen Jubilant But Quiet

By LEN WISSE

It was a tired but jubilant band of Western football players that trooped into the dressing room after winning the Yates Trophy emblematic of senior Intercollegiate football supremacy for the fourth time in the last five seasons.

The dressing room scene, however, was not one of wild exuberance, as one might expect from a group of youths who had just accomplished this feat. This may be attributed to the fact that this team is essentially the one that has won three other titles and many of the boys were accustomed to the championship procedure.

Nevertheless there was more than a good share of shouting and singing. For the first few minutes after their entry into the room from the field the place was filled with cheers. First there were cheers for coach Johnny Metras. Then the boys broke in to song. This was followed by more cheers.

Photographers then started clamoring for photos of the McFarlane brothers who have played their last games in the purple and white uniform. Metras proclaimed them to be the greatest players Western has ever had.

Metras' wife, Shirley, then entered the room and the players clamored for her picture. She was then stood up on a bench and her picture snapped.

Amid all the confusion and clamoring for photos of the McFarlane brothers was heard to exclaim "Well we can send those postcards now — Intercollegiate Football champions."

23,000 Disappointed Fans See Western Defeat McGill Gridders, 24-2

By CY LEWIS

The shadows of dusk gradually settled over the field. Silence reigned in the mammoth confines of the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium. Where, shortly before, had been gathered 23,000 hopeful and cheering fans, there was now nothing. The field house, home of the Redmen was shrouded in darkness and gloom. For this was late Saturday afternoon on the day of November 18th, a day that will go down as one of the blackest in the annals of McGill football history.

Yes, it was here in the confines of their own home field, before some 23,000 of their own supporters, that the title aspirations of the 1950 edition of the McGill Redmen were trampled underfoot, into the turf of this same Molson Stadium, that has been the scene of some of their greatest victories, by a stampeding crew of Mustangs. Saturday saw the team, hailed by some to be the greatest in McGill history, battered, beaten and humiliated by super keen, hard charging University of Western Ontario team under the brilliant coaching of John P. Metras.

24-2. That's right 24-2. A crushing defeat if there ever was one. The Metramen could do no wrong here on Saturday. Their linemen blocked to perfection, led by all-star tackle and captain of the team, Bill Ford. Their back's, particularly Don McFarlane, ran as they had never run before. On defence they were impregnable, with the versatile Bob McFarlane proving his all-star rating by doing a sweet job on a particularly important part of football.

which the mighty Red River burst its banks to flood the countryside, despite the frantic and at times heroic resistance put up by the men in red. No one will deny that the better team won. But in defeat the Redmen played the game to the end.

In a last minute gesture of rage and defiance, the once mighty Redmen again raised themselves to the heights they had previously enjoyed. Harry Irving in the last sequence of four plays before the final gun, ran for eleven yards, passed to Caldwell for ten and finished off with a 15 yard run that ended only two yards from paydirt as the final gun sounded its knell to their title hopes.

While there is naturally keen disappointment amongst Redmen fans over the loss of the big tauble, which was so near and yet so far, there is no cause to condemn the team. The Redmen went into this game suffering heavily from injuries. They had rookie linemen in key spots, who, through no fault of their own were thrust into a difficult situation, fraught with pressure, and who also through no fault of their own could not and did not do as well as the more seasoned regulars whom they were replacing would have done.

Vince Colizza, Arnie Easton, Tom Kellher and Emil Chamandy deserve the highest praise for the job they did. Called up from the intermediates and with only a week to practice with the seniors in, they went out onto the field to play their first game of senior ball in a situation which would have proved insurmountable to lesser men. They knew what they were going into.

Obeckmen Downcast And Quiet

A loser's dressing room is never a happy place at best. When a team has just lost a championship game, it is positively disheartening. Few people were being allowed into the Fieldhouse after the game unless they had a good reason. Frankly this reporter wouldn't have gone in either unless it hadn't been absolutely necessary.

The scene which greeted us was one of utter desolation and depression. Twenty minutes after the game, some of the players still hadn't started changing. They sat there, staring at the ground, seeing nothing, hearing nothing. A grim Dave Caldwell, passed us on the way to his shower. He looked neither right nor left, but walked as one in a trance.

In one corner Dave Tomlinson quietly and quickly dressed anxious to leave as soon as possible. To one side sat Jim Allen and Rocky Robillard, both looking very downcast. They had little to say. Bob McLellan was visible above a sea of heads helping someone out of his gear.

Moe Malone hobbled dejectedly on his crutches. There was no sign of Vic Obeck, he was probably upstairs in his office, alone in his defeat. Lt. Col. St. Clair Holland, president of the club was there passing cokes to the boys and trying to ease the sting of defeat. Principal James was there and he too was somber visaged.

In short the place was like a morgue. Silent and dreary. We did the job we had to do and got out. It wasn't a very nice place to be just then.

LEWIS.

Weather, Bands Shine, Redmen Not So Fine

Big Red Machine Breaks Down Before Purple Onslaught

By BOB BORNSTEIN

The weather was perfect, the condition of the field was adequate, the bands and cheerleaders were ready and raring to go, the spectators were all set for the game of the century, but the Redmen just weren't equal to the test. They fell before the onslaught of the purple and white horde from London and the Big Red Machine broke down completely.

Two weeks ago Johnny Metras' Raiders were rated an in and out team, up one week and down the next. The team that faced the Redmen these last two Saturdays bore no resemblance to the erratic bunch of Mustangs who lost to McGill in the opener and dropped two games to Queen's.

Fans were sure that last week's loss to Western was just one of those things. After all, even the best of teams can't win them all. But this big play-off game with everything at stake, proved beyond a doubt that when the chips are down, Western Mustangs are the class of intercollegiate football.

Before the contest there was an air of optimism among local fans. Ardent followers of the Redmen were willing to give odds that the McGill boys would come through and beat Metras' Marauders to lock up that long-sought title. These same supporters sat in stunned silence as Don McFarlane, Blake Taylor and Jerry Fitzgerald ripped through the Red line repeatedly for huge chunks of yardage. It was the first loss for the Redmen at home since the final game of the 1948 campaign when Queen's beat them.

The McGill band was in fine fettle. The music-makers played steadily for a half hour before the game, provided gleeful noise when Crain hoisted his singles for the only McGill points, continued to play when everyone felt like crawling home as Western poured it on, and brought on the only cheers of the day with the St. Louis Blues March when hostilities had ceased.

Johnny Metras was carried on the shoulders of his happy warriors.

Nominations Open Today For 13 Posts

Nominations open today for the Vice-presidency of the Women's Union and twelve SEC representatives. These will be received for two representatives from the Faculty of Arts and Science, one from the Faculties of Law, Dentistry, Engineering, Medicine, Architecture, Commerce, and one from the Faculties of Music and Theology combined, the Schools of Physical Education, Graduate Nurses, and Physiotherapy combined.

Nominations must be signed by the candidates themselves as well as by twenty-five students from their respective faculties. These nominations must be submitted no later than noon, Saturday, Nov. 25. The pictures, platforms and pen sketches of the various candidates will be published in the Daily during the following week.

"Last year there were twenty-two nominations for the SEC posts and a very interesting battle ensued among the candidates," a spokesman from the Nominations committee told The Daily.

To be eligible for nomination to these positions, a student must be in the year previous to graduation. The Undergraduate Society will conduct the balloting under the direction of the present SEC representatives.

Band Elections

The McGill Band, in elections held last week, elected the following officers: David Cohen, manager; Eric Miller, in charge of personnel; Archie Yanovsky, quartermaster.

Jim Conrad, band president, and Mel Weinhouse, vice-president, will retain their positions until further elections are held next March.

D.V.A. NOTICE

Is announced by D.V.A. that final year students entering the permanent forces will be discontinued from D.V.A. benefits as of the "date preceding official date of appointment. (This would appear to be the date of application.)

Any final year students, formerly under D.V.A., are requested to notify this office of the date of their appointment. This information will then be forwarded to D.V.A. and university authorities. It is important to emphasize that such students will be responsible for their fees.

University Chaplain &
Student Counsellor.

Text of Bill For Parliament Issued

The text of the bill which will be presented on Wednesday, Nov. 22, by a Progressive-Conservative government at the next Mock Parliament, to be held in the Union Ballroom at 8.15 p.m., is as follows:

The Bill

Whereas, this Government feels that it is in conformity with Canada's national and international position and responsibility to maintain strong military forces, this Government proposes:

1. To raise Canada's defence expenditures from $872,000,000 to $1,400,000,000.
2. To authorize the formation and dispatching of one complete division for service anywhere in the world.
3. To refrain from increasing social security and public works measures during the period of the extra defence expenditures when in.

Indians Win Second Straight Intermediate Championship

Defeat R.M.C. 34-0 for 15th Win In a Row; Findly, Shaw Star

By ART GUTTMAN
McGill Intermediate Indians made sure that the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference Football Championship stays in Montreal for this year, when they soundly defeated R.M.C. in Kingston 34-0 last Saturday afternoon.

Cec Findlay scored 17 points and boosted his season's total to 60 in leading the Indians to the crown. Len Shaw played his best game of the year especially on defence. Hank Sliwka scored a major in the last play of the game when he made a miracle catch in the end zone on a heave from Don Williams, while Marv Bergson picked up one point via the convert route.

Long runbacks, strong plunges and a tremendous goal line stand featured the McGill win. Although fast-running Ross McBride had to leave the game just after the start of the second half with a shoulder separation, the Indians rolled up 341 yards on the ground and 124 through the air. They piled up 22 first downs to R.M.C.'s six, and outplayed the Cadets on every field.

A recovered fumble led to McGill's first point early in the game. Gerry Reid recovered on his own 35, and five plays later, Shaw booted a 40-yard kick into the end zone. Pete Julian made the tackle and McGill was never headed from there. Shaw continued the scoring parade a few minutes later when he crashed over from the two-yard line for a major. The convert was no good, and the first quarter ended with the score 6-0 for the Inter.

The second quarter was all Cec Findlay. He plowed through the line for two touchdowns, both from five yards out. Marv Bergson converted the first and Findlay himself added the point after touch on his second major. This made the score 18-0 for McGill at half time. George Klein made the longest run of the afternoon to set up Findlay's second touchdown, when he received a kick at his own 25 and ran it to R.M.C.'s 15-yard line. After an exchange of kicks Findlay scored from the five. John Jenkins scooped up a fumble and raced 45 yards to the 15, but the half ended before anything could be done.

The Cadets put on a desperate drive early in the second half, but the McGill line dug in and held them for four downs. A pass from quarterback McIntyre to Green put the Cadets in possession on the 13-yard line. A plunge put the ball on the four, for a first down. Then the line stiffened, dug in, and held on the three straight plunges which R.M.C. tried. Later in the quarter George Klein set up a touchdown by Shaw when he intercepted a pass on the McGill 45 and ran to the 30. Shaw went over three plays later and the third quarter ended with McGill leading 23-0.

Passes featured the last quarter of the game. A Bergen to Mike Crombie pass connected for 25 yards from the 27-yard line to R.M.C.'s two. Findlay took it over for his third touchdown on the next play. The convert was blocked.

Sliwka Scores

Findlay intercepted another pass at the Cadets 50, and three straight passes from Don Williams to Hank Sliwka added another major to the Indians total. Findlay converted and the Indians won 34-0.

This win, besides bringing a crown to McGill, marks the 15th consecutive game without a loss. During the season they won seven and lost none, averaging 31 points a game. They have only had 17 points scored against them all season, a tribute to the coaching ability of the four coaches, Gordie Marriott, Marv Melrowitz, Jasper Halliday, and Johnny Brikett. During these seven games they scored 314 points paced by Findlay's 60.

No single player can be given credit for the championship, but everyone played for the team with an indomitable spirit that resulted in another championship for Old McGill.

Mingie and Sperling Only McGill Winners in Meet

By BUBE RRESLER

McGill's Red Mermen made their most unimpressive showing of recent years in an open meet at the YMCA on Saturday night. The meet was to be a proving ground for the new talent on the squad. With slight exception the level of performance was quite sub par, even for an early season swimming competition.

Coach Ashton entered everyone who could swim in a quest for free styler to bolster a team sorely in need of them. He found little, if anything to encourage him.

McGill had two winners. Peter Mingie, McGill's great backstroke performer won the hundred yard event. Pete was hard pressed for the win by a rising 17-year old 'Y' backstroke. Kenny Mather. Mather seems on threshold of stardom. Mingie race was excellent for an early season endeavor however.

Gusta Sperling sped to victory in the 200-yard orthodox breast stroke event. This win may point to a good year for Gusta as Irwin Koplin's swim mate in future breast stroke events. His initial performance of this season was the equal of his best of the past season.

Graham Rainbow returned to the swim wars after a year's inactivity and showed quite well. He appears to be coach Ashton's 50 yard sprinter, with the possible exception of versatile Peter Mingie who won the CIAU 50 yard crown last year.

Of the younger set there is little to shout about. Garneau, Bromley, Cate, Falconer and Miller rate second looks. This is a situation created by necessity.

Peter Issenman, six foot 200 pound freestyler, who looms very large in this year's McGill plans, turned in a no-decision performance.

Women Ski Racers Plan Heavy Schedule

Two meetings have already been held in order to get potential racers together, in anticipation of a busy season ahead in women's ski racing.

Last spring Betty Sutherland was elected ski manager, but pressure of studies necessitated her resignation; Ann Henry was appointed her successor by the MWSAA. When the beautiful white stuff has come to stay, competitive meets will be held to pick the intercollegiate team. McGill is fortunate in having four of last year's stars back this year: Rosemarie Schutz, Joanne Hewson, Ann Bushell, and Cathy Coit. Unfortunately, Connie Butlinger will not be able to race this season, due to a knee injury received while skiing in Chile this summer. She does plan, however, to ski outside the competition.

Intercollegiate meets scheduled include those at Middlebury and St. Lawrence Universities; zone meets are also on the agenda, the outstanding of these is the Dominion Championship race at Mount Tremblant.

Mentor Moe Chooses Basketball Team

The Mont St. Louis gym on Sherbrooke street will be the site of the unveiling of the McGill senior basketball team, 1950-51 edition. The identity of the Redmen's opponents for this Saturday's tilt remains as the major question mark, but this situation should be cleared up early this week when NBL secretary Al Irwin release the league schedule.

Coach Moe Abramowitz has released a tentative lineup for the weekend opener, with five of the possible eleven berths going to newcomers and the remaining half dozen or so being taken up by returning stars from last year's senior aggregation.

Most notable among the new recruits to the Red Raiders are the two former YMHA stars, Sol Tolchinsky and Ben Tissenbaum. Both these boys possess plenty of cage know-how, and should give the quietest the added offensive spark they have been lacking over the past few years. Tol Sol will also be a welcome addition in filling the height gap left by the graduation of Lanky Bud Fraser.

Susslin, Nickolaids and Feldman are the three other newcomers to the squad. Susslin and Nickolaids are both protagonists of the wide open driving brand of ball, as well as showing lots of fight under the backboards. Feldman, a former Montreal High and then University of Colorado cager is a smooth ballhandler, but lacks height.

Returning from last year's Redmen are Lou Endman, Ashlie Garbuz, Sheldon Merling, Bruce Cunningham, and Smiley Wilson. There is also a possibility that Dave Caldwell may turn out for the hoop wars now that the football season has come to an end.

and they knew that to them would fall the blame should the Redmen lose. It was a tight spot. Yet they went in there and played the best they knew how. All four of these boys are senior material and Saturday's defeat should not and must not be held against them.

Dave Caldwell, one of the team's most dependable veterans, played a standout game in a losing cause. Offensively he latched on to two passes and carried out his assignments well, defensively he was the outstanding man on the McGill team, if not on both squads. It was a job well done.

Western kicked off to open the game. Robinson made the run-back. Two plays got nowhere and Crain kicked. Western made a first in three plays but on first and ten Arnott fumbled and Caldwell recovered. A line buck got nowhere and Irving passed to Caldwell who lateraled to Robillard with the play going 25 yards. Another Irving to Caldwell pass went away and a pass play that didn't quite come off forced McGill to kick. Crain, who was kicking well all afternoon, lofted a lovely forty-five yarder and Western were roused. McGill 1, Western 0.

An exchange of kicks, a McGill march and another kick exchange plus unrecovered fumbles on successive plays by Western and McGill, a blocked McGill kick recovered by Western, another unrecovered Western fumble, and a short McGill drive, set the Redmen up for their second single. This was another forty-five yarder by Crain. Score: McGill 2, Western 0.

The Mustangs started a drive which was halted with a jolt when McGill blocked and recovered a kick after it had rolled to the Mustangs 19. Wagner and Irving went for 13 between the hand the ball was on the six. A line buck failed and then two Irving passes failed and Western took over on their own six. An exchange of kicks and Western took over on their own 20. Spearheaded by Don McFarlane and Gerry Fitzgerald they went all the way for a major, converted by Bob McGill 2, Mustangs 6.

An exchange of kicks proved inconclusive and the half ended as Robinson shook loose for 11 yards.

With the opening of the second half an Irving pass was intercepted and that gave the Mustangs the ball. However they went nowhere. A McGill drive was halted when Crain's fake kick end run was stopped a yard short on third down. Another Irving pass was intercepted and this time set up the Mustangs for the touchdown that broke the back of the McGill resistance. Helped on by a total of 35 yards in roughing penalties to McGill the Mustangs went 54 yards to paydirt. McFarlane converted nulled on an offside. McGill 2, Western 11.

The rest of the game was a shambles, with the Mustangs ripping through the Redmen almost at will except for one McGill drive which was stopped short of a TD. The Mustangs garnered two more majors with the talented toe of Bob McFarlane converting them. Final McGill 2 Western 24.

Don MacFarlane and Blake Taylor eached notched two TD's and Gray kicked a single. Bob McFarlane got three converts. For McGill Crain's boot was responsible for McGill's two points on singles.

MIT Graduate To Speak in Hillel Program

Irving Fineman, writer and teacher, will be guest lecturer at Hillel House, 3460 Stanley St., on Wednesday, November 22nd, at 1 p.m. His topic will be: "Why Read? Why Write?" Mr. Fineman will discuss his personal experience as reader and writer and his vision of the function of fiction in civilized life.

Irving Fineman's first interests were scientific. A graduate in engineering of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University, he worked on many projects in the U.S. and Canada. During the First World War, he was an Engineer Officer in the U.S.

until he comes back from overseas, the war is too long, the family inconsistent, and the lure of good time too tempting. She breaks her vow, goes berserk, and marries a rich suitor. Ti-Coq who has kept faith, denounces all thoughts of righteousness, good faith, and justice. Then he returns home.

There is one thing apparent in this; when you enter the theatre you may not be a Fridolin fan, but when you leave, the little man with the versatile features has taken you over a long path of pathos and humour, merriment and thought and has added you to his long list of admiring fans. It is indefinite whether his gestures are acting or pantomime — it reminds me of the pathetic Chaplin who is funny, yet deep in the recesses is the thought of man's indecency to man. Fridolin has taken the unfortunate human being whom most people are reluctant to admit is human, in its fullest sense, and has given him flesh.

Fred Barry as Papa Desilets deserves top billing with Fridolin. His portrayal of a Habitant father is excellent. With him the French-Canadian mannerism of the north becomes an actuality on the stage.

Jean-Paul, played by Clement Latour, ably assists Fridolin and at times excels him. Special emphasis should be placed on Juliette Bellevue who plays the spinster Aunt Clara. With the exception of Robert Christie as the Padre, the rest of the cast lends depth and life to the play. Robert Christie never makes the Padre a living personality; whether this is due to the play itself or the actor is hard to say.

Realistic Settings

The sets are the most realistic part of the entire program. The French farmer kitchen, the outside of a rooming house, the transport ship, are so well done that before the audience fully realizes it, they are losing part of the dialogue by concentrating on the scenery. It is so typically Montreal and Quebec that half the enjoyment may be lost by any "foreign" audience. Not the least of its merits is the rapid change of sets between scenes.

"Ti-Coq" is a Canadian play, because it is written by a Canadian with a Canadian insight. It never enters the mind that because it is French Canadian it is only a section of Canadian drama. Canada is composed of many ethnic groups, and each one is Canadian and composes Canadian culture. This play presents the challenge of Canadian thought. If you see "Ti-Coq" and you should, you will begin to realize that the challenge is being met maturely.

flationary tendencies will be active.

The Liberals, who will be the official opposition in this Parliament, have proposed the following amendments:

Add to the preamble "Whereas, a program of economic rehabilitation in the underdeveloped areas of the world is essential to the maintenance of peace."

In clause (1) change the figure $1,400,000,000 to read $952,000,000. In Clause 3 to be renamed Clause 4. Insert as Clause 3 "to raise an additional sum of $150,000,000 for a program of Economic aid to the under developed areas of the world with particular interest to those regions directly threatened by Communist infiltration."

Add Clause 5 "further to combat inflation and to raise the necessary revenue for these measures this Government purposes to raise the general level of taxation on a "pay as you go" basis."

SEC Authorizes Tram Petition Submission

The Student Executive Council has authorized the transmission of the 4000-signature petition drawn up by the Students Carfare Committee to the Montreal Transportation Commission. The council has further authorized the committee to state that these signatures represent four thousand students at McGill, Isidore Rosenfeld announced last night.

There is to be a general meeting of the Students Carfare Committee on Tuesday. Included among the delegates will be Denis Lazure, Mart Briere, and Gaetan Legault of the University of Montreal, John Fraykor and Gerald McGee of Loyola, Sam Enhorn, and Bernard Tonchin of Sir George Williams College, and Raymond Guevin and Pierre Villeneuve of Mont St. Louis. The representatives from McGill are Jack Morin, Chuck Taylor, Eric Marler and Mimitrius Codounis.

Commerce Students Open Common Room

Through the efforts of Professor H. D. Woods, two rooms in the basement of Duggan House have been presented for use as Common Rooms by students of the Faculty of Commerce.

The outer room is a study room equipped with tables and chairs, while the students are able to relax on a sofa and easy chairs in the other room.

The furniture for these rooms, which were formerly used by the Law Faculty, was obtained from Dawson College.

This is the first time The Commerce Undergraduate Society has had a place where they could study, relax, or read and they greatly appreciate the good work of Professor Woods.

EUS Speaker's Forum

The topic for the Engineering Speaker's Forum, to be held today at 1 p.m. in Room 33 of the Engineering Building, will be the plans of The Graduate Society for the year.

The speaker will be Mr. J. A. deLalanne, president of the Graduate Society.

Mr. deLalanne is a veteran of both world wars, and is now vice-principal of the Westmount Protestant School Board.
